The First Line Is At Stake

Secretary of the treasury Mergenthaler got down to brass tacks last night when Congress decided that Britain will need $3,000,000,000 to pay for needed war supplies bought in the United States during the current year. The amount is about half that amount of funds available for the purpose.

Secretary of State Hull pointed the moral when he said "Germany could easily cross the Atlantic if Britain should go under. It could do so very easily if in the fall of Britain any considerable part of the British fleet passed into Nazi hands. The danger is that the predictable circumstances of defeat, that is something no one can guarantee would not happen.

Congress knows now exactly what President Roosevelt meant when he said "We cannot and will not tell them (British and the Allies) they must accept our terms. We will accept the only terms which we know they must have." Britain and its Allies must have the weapons if they are to stand and they can't pay for them.

Directly Congress is considering whether it will empower the President to lease or lend these weapons to the British or to democracies. Actually it is considering whether or not the weapons are to be used to maintain the only overseas front against the Axis powers. For Britain can't pay.

There's Trouble Ahead

Federal income taxes will be due on April 30. If not paid by that date, interest at 3 per cent is to be charged on the arrears. But the law has to wait until then to start paying. In fact the Minister of Finance has invited people to start paying earlier, and made it worth their while. The government can make no interest penalty. It is beginning in January, any person pays a third of the total tax in four monthly instalments. He can pay the balance in four monthly instalments without interest being charged. That is in a way, those who pay in advance to August inclusive, without having to pay anything more than the amount of the tax.

It is very much in order to note that these taxes will be much higher than heretofore. Thus a single person with an income of $540 will have to pay $45.00, and a married couple with an income of $1560 will have to pay $180. In both classes the tax is sharply graded, otherwise being paid for dependents. A single person with an income of $5000 will come in for a tax of $815, and a married person without children for a tax of $445.

It will be a good plan to find out now how much one will have to pay, decide how it can be most conveniently paid, and start saving the money. Those who ignore the matter will get a jolt when the whole amount becomes due at the end of April.

Laid On The Table

The Sturis report was a proposal, not a mandate. It did not have to be accepted as it is not a law. It was a suggestion, an amendment, to the point of resolution. Discussion at the Ottawa "conference" would have been a mere preliminary. Some terms could have been accepted, others discarded, or all could have been thrown out and approved as the last proposal.

The conference neither accepted the proposed plan nor rejected it. It was a suggestion, an opportunity to do either or the other, a full understanding of the report. Representatives of three of the provinces refused to discuss the matter. The Sturis report was properly, that it would be useless for them to proceed.

The report is therefore left on the table. It has not been disposed of in any way. It is unfinished business, and still on the agenda. There seemed to be general agreement that discussion would have proceeded if there had been no war, and will be agreeable when the war is over. Hon. Ernest Lapointe thinks the report will eventually be adopted in substance, not unreservable view.

Two or three years from now a change in the Sturis report will be necessary by reducing the provincial debts to zero. The report is not a plan, it is a suggestion. It is a suggestion that the provinces should be able to pay for their debts. It is a suggestion that the provinces should be able to pay for their debts.

There have been a good many such conferences in past years. This is not the first time that the provinces have been asked to do so. It is a suggestion that the provinces should be able to pay for their debts. It is a suggestion that the provinces should be able to pay for their debts.

Forget It

Collapse of the Dominion-provincial "conference" leaves matters pretty much as they are, with the Dominion and the provinces carrying on as they have for more than seventy years. Canada won't collapse because the conference did.

There have been a good many such conferences in past years. This is not the first time that the provinces have been asked to do so. It is a suggestion that the provinces should be able to pay for their debts. It is a suggestion that the provinces should be able to pay for their debts.

the treasury rather than incur the wrath of the provincial politicians.

This conference is the provincial government's nothing in the way of cash. It is to be hoped none of them have gone home with a pocket full of cash. The provinces are in no proper ground on which to do so. The provincial executives were invited to gather around a table and study the Sturis report. They gathered around the table, but refused to study. That is, they refused to study.

It will do no good, and will certainly do harm. It is a suggestion that the provinces should be able to pay for their debts. It is a suggestion that the provinces should be able to pay for their debts.

Musolini has decreed death to any person in Italy who hands food and is caught. The food is to be used to make a stockpile of food supplies, in order to enforce the decree. The condition of the Italian border hardly needs description.

The new commander of the Italian forces in Albania is chief of the Fascist army staff. He is to be in charge of the Italian forces in Albania. He is to be in charge of the Italian forces in Albania.

Perhaps there is no way of making a deal fairly enough to draw wide popular support. But 200 entries for this year's show in Edmonton are a good indication of the fact that the public is interested in the show. The show is a good one, and the public is interested in it.

From The News

By Harold L. Weir

A report tempest rages at the Pacific Coast over the information of radio announcers.

A few patriots have taken the stand that the radio people have unjustifiably adopted "English accents."

Several English residents have come back with the hot retort that there is no such thing as an "English accent" because English is the only place where the English language is spoken properly. If any difference exists between English and Canadian English, they say, it is because of the "Canadian accent."

To deliberately step into a passionate dispute such as this is to stick one's foot into a scalding bath.

Nevertheless it should be pointed out that the standard pronunciation of English has varied so much, from time to time, that it is almost as futile to try to place it as it is to try to date it.

Authorities have pointed out, on the best of evidence, that Elizabethan court English, for instance, was very similar to that of the modern day English. The Queen Queen spoke with a brogue.

In making some of his characters say "schwa" for "volunteer" and "windie" for "window," Charles Dickens was only reproducing the fashionable language of early Georgian days when Santa Claus came down the chimney and drunken drunks fell out of "windies."

If standard English has been subjected to so many distortions in different periods of its history, who can say what pronunciation or accent is the real McCoy today?

Many idiotic misconceptions exist about the pronunciation of the language in England. It is commonly believed, for instance, that the average Englishman speaks the "r" as a "w" sound.

This is untrue. The only place in the world where English is spoken without the "r" sound is in the higher income groups of New York.

All Englishmen pronounce the "r" as a "w" sound, and some with the general quality of a "w" sound.

Canadians pronounce the "r" more respectfully because of the Scottish and Irish influence on the language.

The paradoxical nature of this latter observation is made plain in the fact that the beautiful English in the world is spoken by the people in Dublin and among the flower children on Princess street in London—where the "r" is little more than an aspirate.

Barring basic ethnological influences, cultured English is pretty much the same the world over. The only differences are in the "r" sound, and by the requirements of good taste.

It is very much in order to note that these taxes will be much higher than heretofore. Thus a single person with an income of $540 will have to pay $45.00, and a married couple with an income of $1560 will have to pay $180.

Side Glances

By Galbraith

The end of the "Labor Problem" is often a question of degree. It is to be reached, extended, or sacrificed in "social gains" during the emergency. This is not one of those false dilemmas which are based on a false premise. It is a false conclusion. So perhaps it is a false conclusion to say that the "Labor Problem" is a question of degree.

As compared with its position in the first World War, labor in the 1930s has won a great deal. It has won a status in American life which it never had before. It has won the right to organize and to bargain collectively. It has won the right to strike and to picket. It has won the right to be heard.

Second, labor has achieved a new security in its position. It has won the right to be heard. It has won the right to be heard. It has won the right to be heard.

Third, labor, when employed, has gained enormous higher rates of pay. It has won the right to be heard. It has won the right to be heard. It has won the right to be heard.

Fourth, labor, when employed, has gained enormous higher rates of pay. It has won the right to be heard. It has won the right to be heard. It has won the right to be heard.

GENERAL SAYS LINEAR LINE WILL WIN WAR

Ultimate Military Tactical Formation To Bring British Victory

The linear battle line will be the ultimate military tactical formation which will bring victory to Great Britain and her allies, predicted Major General W. A. Griehs, C.B., C.M.G., B.Sc., V.D., chief addressing members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the monthly dinner meeting held Thursday at the MacDonald hotel.

This military formation has broken itself over 2,000 years as the military method of conquest. The "Tactical" innovation have prevailed against this formation at different periods in history, but always the final outcome of wars has rested in the linear line.

He mentioned the innovation of World War I and the use of tanks and aircraft, but said that the linear line will win the war. He said that the linear line will win the war.

SUCCESSFUL LAST WAR

The linear line was the tactic successful in the last war, and it will be the line that will win this conflict. It is based on the principle of advancing to fight objectives, pushing the enemy back, harassing him until he is overcome.

CAN BE MET

Both these innovations can be met and overcome. The former by filling the air, as we are now en-

Police Arrest Chinese Here After Theft Of Horse Hair

Containing a relentless campaign against a comparatively new kind of criminal activity city police and R.C.M.P. investigators Friday arrested Yen Chin, city Chinese resident, on charges of theft and cruelty to animals as the result of clipping of tails of horses and the farm of John Stett at Belmont, just north of the city.

About 50 horses have been clipped at the Red Top Produce farm, while about seven animals were involved in the out-of-town case.

Arrest of the Chinese was made by Det. Kenyon O'Brien, city police and Det. Corp. Sialer, R.C.M.P. Police stated that the hair clipped from the tails of the horses has a ready sale to fur and hide dealers at 40 cents a pound.

It is a wide variety of uses, ranging all the way from the stuffing of certain kinds of mattresses to padding for expensive clothing.

In addition to sending horses practically all over the world, the summer months, the value of pedigreed stock slumps to practically nothing when the tails have been clipped, police point out.

In the case of Mr. Stett, a purchased mare valued at $275 was a victim. It required about three years for the hair to grow in again.

Yen Chin was scheduled to appear in police court Friday.

Devising to do with fighting plan. The second by the organization of defense lines which will be able to punish the exposed enemy flank.

Our communications must be protected to death, so that the enemy will be unable to destroy the vital centres of the line.

General Griehs was of the opinion that the military tactic of placing troops in mass formations to such depth that the mechanized forces would be unable to push through. While not enable us to win the war.

STUDENTS TO OPEN DEBATE AT VARSITY

McGoun Cup Competitions Get Underway In West Tonight

Making a determined bid for western intercollegiate debating honors the University of Alberta will send four of its ablest speakers into the McGoun cup competitions being held on all four western campuses Friday night.

At 8:15 p.m. Friday in Convocation hall the Alberta negative team, consisting of Schumacher and John Maxwell will meet Douglas, McManis and Roy Mann, affirmative team from the University of Manitoba. The debate, an annual intercollegiate affair, is open to the general public.

While the contest is being held here, the two Alberta negative debaters, Gerry Armstrong and Michel Dubois, both law students from Edmonton, will meet William Holden and Jack Saffan in Saskatchewan.

The contest to be staged here is one in the McGoun series being held simultaneously in the four western universities. Each of these college sponsors two teams, the affirmative travelling to some other campus, while the negative plays hosts to a visiting team.

In this series British Columbia travels to Alberta, while Alberta travels to British Columbia, while Saskatchewan travels to Alberta, while Alberta travels to Saskatchewan.

Topic under discussion is, "The coming of the mechanical system of International Law, enjoying primacy in National Law, would be the best interest of World Peace."

COURT ADMITS STATEMENT IN WOMAN'S CASE

Mrs. Donna Nuhn Faces Trial Under Defence Regulations

Admission of a signed statement given by the accused to officers of the R.C.M.P. at the time of her arrest on charges under the Defence of Canada Regulations, was made today by the court in the trial of Mrs. Donna Nuhn, one of five alleged members of the outlawed Jehovah's Witnesses organization, who faced Magistrate Miller in city police court Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Nuhn, who lives in Edmonton, is the first of the five to go on trial under the special defence regulations. She is charged with continuing to be a member of an illegal organization. The others are Betty W. Wadsworth, Theresa A. Steve, Dr. George and Sam Chert.

GREEK HISTORY TOLD HERE BY DR. W. G. HARDY

"Ancient and Modern Greece" was the subject of an address given by Dr. W. G. Hardy, head of the classics department of the University of Alberta, at a dinner meeting of the Robertson Church Men's Club Thursday evening.

Dr. Hardy traced the history and development of Greece from early times and compared some of the ancient and modern civilizations. He paid tribute to the people of that country in their fight for freedom and democracy, and declared that the friendship between Britain and Greece at the present time was one of the finer phases of the war.

Special guests of the function were John Johnson, chairman of the Edmonton Greek Association, and fellow countrymen. Miss Jeaneau Pease was guest speaker, and entertained with appropriate vocal selections.

DRILLING ON GOLD CLAIMS NOW PLANNED

FARMER URGED PRODUCE HIGH GRADE WHEAT

Necessary To Hold British Market After War Minister Says

Quality wheat must be produced by Alberta and Canadian growers to hold the British market after the war, Hon. D. Bruce MacMillan, minister of agriculture, declared in addressing the annual banquet of the Alberta Seed Growers' Association at the Royal George hotel Thursday evening.

Mr. MacMillan praised the farming industry and declared it was as important to the war effort as these industries engaged in manufacturing guns, shells and other war materials.

Urging a vigorous war policy and the participation to the greatest extent by the farming industry, Mr. MacMillan declared that in the last war, when we had the German wheat and flour, as came back and left it to the politicians to carry the day, we had the German wheat and flour, as came back and left it to the politicians to carry the day.

He said that in the last war, when we had the German wheat and flour, as came back and left it to the politicians to carry the day, we had the German wheat and flour, as came back and left it to the politicians to carry the day.
